Cecilia Brozovich began her career in her native Peru, but within one month after arriving in Miami, was booked for a Ford Motors shoot and hosted a major PAF convention. After hosting "Bienvenidos" on Telefutura Miami, she went on to supporting roles in "Nino," "Boulevard Torbellino," "For Maria," and "Soledad," before landing the leading role in "Tormenta de Pasiones."

Cecilia is an accomplished singer and dancer and has appeared in "La Cage aux Folles." She loves to play squash and swim and can also hold her own in the boxing ring. She says she's attracted to people who are down to earth, warm, friendly and outgoing. Cecilia sends hugs and kisses to everyone who reads this.

If it hadn't been so many years since they recorded it, we would swear we know who Simon and Garfunkel meant when they sang: "Cecilia, you're breaking my heart . . ."
